BOOKS AND MONOGRAPHS

Alzate, Carolina, Betty Osorio, and Beatriz Restrepo, eds. La escritura, ese lugar que me acompaña. Bogotá, Colombia: Universidad de los Andes, 2014.

ARTICLES, BOOK CHAPTERS, NOTES

---. “The Victorian Cook’s Modern Character.” Minow-Pinkney 47-53.

Adhikari, Manahari. "Locating Sites of Negations and Denigrating 'Negative Essentializing': Rereading Virginia Woolf's A Room of One's Own." Advances in Language and Literary Studies 5.6 (2014): 105-111.

---. “The Visual Arts in To the Lighthouse.)” Pease 136-145.

Cao, Xiaoqin. “‘Behind that plain china off which we dined’: China/Chinese in Virginia Woolf’s Writings.” Virginia Woolf Miscellany 86 (2014): 27-29.

Cassigneul. Adèle. “‘Un regard et posé sur le monde.’” Daivson-Pégou and Smith Di-Biasio 139-154.

Cuddy-Keane, Melba. “Movement, Space, and Embodied Cognition in To the Lighthouse.” Pease 58-68.

De Giovanni, Flora. “Ulysses’ (C)rib: Joyce, Woolf, Wyndham Lewis.” Canani and Sullam 38-49.

Delany, Paul. “‘The Death of a Beautiful Man’: Rupert Brooke in Memory and Imagination.” Wussow and Gillies 50-58.

Delourme, Chantal. “‘We are … marking time’: The Impossible Contemporary as a Poïe/Litical Threshold in Virginia Woolf’s Diary, Volume 5.” Daivson-Pégon and Smith Di-Biasio 191-206.

DiBattista, Maria. “Virginia Woolf’s Bad Manners.” Minow-Pinkney 76-82.

---. “To the Lighthouse’s Use of Language and Form.” Pease 30-46.

Hagen, Benjamin D. “Furthering the Voyage: Reconsidering DeSalvo in Contemporary Woolf Studies.” Caronia and Giunta 140-152.

Latham, Monica. “Mrs Woolf, our Twenty-First-Century Contemporary.” Daivson-Pégon and Smith Di-Biasio 207-222.

Mahire, Vanessa. “‘The Worst of Music’: Listening and Narrative in Night and Day and ‘The String Quartet’.” Varga and Szegedy-Maszák 134-158.

McIntire, Gabrielle. “Feminism and Gender in To the Lighthouse.” Pease 80-91.

Minow-Pinkney, Makiko. “Reflections on Context.” Minow-Pinkney 1-44.

Nadel, Ira. “‘Caterpillars of the Commonwealth Unite’: Photography and Trauma in Three Guineas.” Wussow and Gillies 145-150.

---. “Multiple Anonymities: Resonances of Fielding’s The Female Husband in Orlando and A Room of One’s Own.” Dubino, et al. 187-204.

Ordóñez, Montserrat. “Virginia Woolf o el proceso de vivir.” Alzate, Osorio, and Restrepo 77-82.

Oya, Reiko. "‘Or was it Sh—p—re?: Shakespeare in the Manuscript of Virginia Woolf’s To the Lighthouse.” McMullan, Orlin, and Vaughan 207-217.

Pagetti, Carlo. “‘Where There’s a Will, There’s a Way’: The Dialogue between Virginia Woolf and Master William.” Cianci and Patey 59-76.

Pavec, Nathalie. “‘The Platform of Time’: l’écriture inactuelle de Virginia Woolf.” Daivson-Pégon and Smith Di-Biasio 73-86.

Reed, Christopher. “On or about January 1924: Domesticity and the Project of Change.” Minow-Pinkney 150-58.

Rosé, Claire. “‘We want what is timeless and contemporary,’ poétique du poème selon Virginia Woolf.” Daivson-Pégon and Smith Di-Biasio 53-72.

---. “‘The lawn was the world’: Uprooting Trees and Becoming-Grass in Virginia Woolf’s To the Lighthouse.” Daivson-Pégon and Smith Di-Biasio 129-138.

Seshagiri, Urmila. “To the Lighthouse and the Art of Race.” Pease 92-109.

---. “‘Shop windows blazing; and women gazing’: Woolf, Commodity Culture and the Gift Economy.” Daivson-Pégon and Smith Di-Biasio 43-52.

---. “Social Class in To the Lighthouse.” Pease 110-121.

Skripsky, Sarah L. “Spaciousness and Subjectivity in Alice Walker’s Womanist Prose: From Virginia Woolf’s A Room of One’s Own to a Garden with ‘Every Color Flower Represented.’” Artuso 228-242.

Smith, Angela. “‘The most amazing senses of her generation’: Colourist Design in Katherine Mansfield’s Fiction.” Artuso 93-108.

Stevenson, Christina. "'Here Was One Room, There Another': The Room, Authorship, and Feminine Desire in A Room Of One's Own and *Mrs. Dalloway."

Tildesley, Matthew. "Knocking on the Lighthouse Gate: Further Connections between Thomas de Quincey and Virginia Woolf's *To the Lighthouse. Neophilologus 98.3 (2014): 517-525.

Toth, Naomi. “Enduring Time: Orlando and ‘the present moment.’” Daivson-Pégon and Smith Di-Biasio 87-100.

Usui, Masami. “‘Sub rosa’ in 1910 in The Years.” Minow-Pinkney 181-89.

Varlack, Christopher Allen. “‘It Had Grown into a Machine’: Transience of Identity and the Search for a Room of One’s Own in Quicksand and Plum Bun: A Novel Without a Moral.” Artuso 152-166.

Veyu, Ernest L. “Mind, Emotions, and Mourning in Virginia Woolf’s To the Lighthouse.” Veyu and Ubanako 20-36.

REVIEWS

Kaufman, Heidi. Rev. of The Boundaries of the Literary Archive: Reclamation and Representation, by Carrie Smith and Lisa Stead, and *Roomscape: Women Writers in the

DISSERTATIONS AND THESES

Bagocius, Benjamin D. “The Disappearing Man: Rethinking this Substance of Sexuality in British Life Science and Literature, ca. 1860-1930.” Diss. Indiana University.

Barai, Aneesh. “Modernist Repositionings of Rousseau’s Ideal Childhood: Place and Space in English Modernist Children’s Literature and Its French Translations.” Diss. Queen Mary University of London.

Burdick-Shepherd, Stephanie A. “Reading for Childhood in Philosophy and Literature: An Ethical Practice for Educators.” Diss. Columbia University.

Fox, Meghan C. “Marginal Forms and Marginalized Subjectivities: The Hybrid Modernisms of Barnes, Woolf, Stein, and H.D.” Diss. State University of New York at Stony Brook.

Garber, Cecily R. “Fiction-Criticism in Interwar England: Judgment, Gender, and the Pluralist Public Sphere.” Diss. University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Haskill, Christine. “Battling the Separate Spheres: New Woman Writers and British Women Writers of World War I.” Diss. Western Michigan University.

30

TEXTS BY WOOLF

ADDENDA