

Authors

Olga Barash, is a translator and an independent scholar, she works as an editor at the online journal “Language Travel”. Her research interests include theory and practice of poetic translation, comparative poetics, life and work of Josef Brodsky. She is an author of more than 50 articles, mainly concerning J.Brodsky.

Anna Chudeckaya, has a PhD in the Art history, she is a member of the AIS (Association of Art Critics), and a leading researcher of the Personal Collections Department of the Pushkin State Museum of Fine Arts. She is the curator of the collection of Vsevolod Nekrasov. Her interests lie in the field of Russian art of the second half of the 20th century. She has conducted more than 40 curatorial exhibition projects, including the exhibition “The Artist's Book: 1990-ies” (1998).

Danila Davydov is a PhD and an Associate Professor of State Academic University of Humanitarian Sciences. He is known for his poetry and also writes short stories, essays, critical articles and reviews, and philological studies, including “Russian Naive and Primitivist Poetry: Genesis, Evolution, Poetics”, 2003.

Susanne Frank, is the Chair of East Slavic Literatures and Cultures at the Institute of Slavic Studies at Humboldt University Berlin. Her fields of research are: History of Russia and Russian language literature in (post)imperial and (post)Soviet contexts; History of trans-regional and transcontinental literary entanglements; concepts, projects and politics of world literature; geo-poetics and geopolitics; cultural semantics of nature; literary and visual cultures and politics of memory.

Sabine Hänsgen is a Slavic and media scholar, editor, curator, and translator. She studied Slavic literatures, history, and art history at the Ruhr University Bochum, and was awarded a DAAD research grant at the Institute of Cinematography VGIK in Moscow with a doctoral thesis on Soviet film history. She has conducted research and taught at universities in Bochum, Bielefeld, Bremen, Cologne, Basel, and Berlin, and has also been involved in establishing an audiovisual archive of Moscow conceptualism. Currently, she is a researcher in the project Performance Art in Eastern Europe at the University of Zurich.

Piotr Kazarnovsky is an independent researcher. He took part in publication of literary works by L. Aronson, P. Zaltsman, A. Nick. He has participated in a number of international conferences on historic avant-garde and the “second culture”.

Ilja Kujuk received his PhD in Slavic Studies at the University of Bielefeld (Germany) in 2009 with the dissertation “The Concept of “veshch’” [thing] in the Russian Avant-garde”. He is a senior lecturer at the Institute of Slavic Philology at Ludwig-Maximilian-University in Munich (Germany). His research interests include Russian avant-garde, samizdat culture and Soviet cinema. Ilja Kujuk is an editor of literary works of Leonid Aronzon, Pavel Salzman, Anri Volokhonsky, Alexei Khvostenko et al.

Ilya Kukulin is a Ph.D. and an Associate Professor at the Department of Cultural Studies of the National State University -- Higher School of Economics, Moscow (HSE, Moscow), also he is a Senior Researcher at the International Center for the History and Sociology of World War II and Its Consequences (HSE, Moscow), Senior Research Fellow at the School of Advanced Studies in the Humanities at the Russian Academy of National Economy and Public Administration (Moscow).

Gennadij Kuzovkin is a historian, director of the research program “History of Dissent in the USSR” (“Memorial”, Moscow, <https://www.memo.ru/ru-ru/history-of-repressions-and-protest/protest/dissidents/programma-istoriya-inakomyслиya-v-sssr-1954-1987-gg/>), coordinator of several historical projects. The result of one such project was the first RuNet directory of Samizdat (<http://samizdat.memo.ru/samizdat/introen>). His research interests are: The history of dissident activity and political repression in the post-Stalin period, including the history of Samizdat (and the phenomenon of Stalin’s portrayal in Samizdat), the “Thaw,” extra-judicial persecution (such as by the Communist Party and by Komsomol), and the legal strategies of the totalitarian state. Retro-sociological methods for researching dissident subcultures with the help of Internet technologies.

Alena Machoninova is a philologist and translator. She was born in Prague, Czech Republic where she graduated from Russian studies and received a PhD degree from comparative literature at Charles University. After graduation she spent ten years in Moscow teaching Czech language and literature at Moscow State University. As a scholar and translator she focuses mainly on Russian unofficial poetry and visual art of second half of the 20th century – she edited and translated (with Jan Machonin) the anthology of the poets of the Lianozovo school Zloději všedních okamžiků (Praha: Arbor vitae 2015). Together with Robert Ibrahim she translated Mikhail Gasparov’s Nástin dějin evropského verše Michaila Gasparova (Dauphin: 2012). Recently, she edited Gulag memories of Czech immigrant to USSR Hella Frischer.

Arsen Mirzaev is a poet, a literary critic, an editor, and a researcher of the Russian avant-garde movement. He is a deputy director at Institute of Russian avant-garde in St. Petersburg. In 1988–1995 he was an editor of the magazine «Sumerki».

Arsen Mirzaev is an author of 20 poetic books, published in St. Petersburg, Moscow, Madrid, Cheboksari and Taganrog. His poems have been translated into English, French, Spanish, Romanian, Croatian, Finnish, Polish, Czech, Chuvash and other languages.

Arsen Mirzaev works as chief editor of the international Avant-Garde magazine «Futurum Art».

Yuriy Orlickiy is a leading researcher of the Mandelshtam educational and scientific center in the Institute of Philology and History (Russian State University for the Humanities). He is a Doctor of Philology. He is an author of 6 books and more than 800 works in the verse and prose’s theory, Russian literary history

Dmitry Patolyatov is a graduate student at the Institute of Philology of the Moscow State Pedagogical University. His main fields of interest are linguistic poetics, poetic syntax and stylistics; his scientific research focuses on the study of the rhythm and syntax of Igor Kholin's free verse.

Mikhail Pavlovets is a Ph.D. in Russian Literature and an Associate Professor at the School of Philology of the National State University - Higher School of Economics (HSE), Moscow. His main fields of interest are literature of avant-garde, uncensored poetry, contemporary Russian poetry, history of the school literary education.

Elena Penskaya, is a Doctor of Science in Philology, the Ordinary professor, and the Head of the School of Philology of the Faculty for the Humanities National Research University Higher School for Economics. She also leads research projects in the interdisciplinary field - the crossroads of European and Russian historical, cultural and literary contexts of 19-21 centuries. Her professional interests are: Russian and European intellectual discussions of 19-21 centuries, intellectual history, Russian and European Literature and Drama, and Comparative Studies.

Sergey Preobrazhenskiy (1955-2017) was a PhD in philology. He worked as Associate Professor at the Chair of General and Russian Linguistics at the Peoples’ Friendship University of Russia. His research interests included linguistic analysis of literary text, comparative poetics, methodology of linguistic research. He was also a poet and an author of about 90 scientific works and three volumes of poetry.

Olga Severskaya is a senior researcher of the Russian Language Institute of the Russian Academy of Sciences, she has PhD in Philology. She is an author of studies of the contemporary Russian poetry language and poetics, as well as poetic practices of the current political discourse, journalist of the radio “Echo of Moscow”.

Evgeniya Vorobyeva (Vezlyan) is an Associate Professor at the Institute for History and philology at Russian State University for the Humanities. She also is literary criticist and author of many articles about actual Russian literary process.

Ulyana Verina, is a PhD in Philology. She is an Associate Professor at the Department of Russian literature, at Belarusian State University, Minsk. Her research interests are: modern poetry of Russia and Belarus, poetic forms and genres. Subject teaching: Russian literature of the XIX century. Among recent works are “Book of Poems as a Culture Phenomenon in Russia and Belarus” (2016; with N. Barkovskaya, L. Gutrina, V. Zhibul), “Renewal of the Genre System of Russian Poetry of the turn of the 20-21st centuries” (2017).

Leonid Ziman is an Associate Professor of Early Foreign Language Learning Department, Moscow City Pedagogical University. He has a PhD in Pedagogy. He is a member of Moscow Writer’s Union. He is the author of 288 publications: training aids appliances, articles, dramatizations, translations of verses and fairy tales from English and Italian. His research interests are: literary criticism; theory and practice of translation; adaptation for the stage of literary works for children.

Galina Zykova, is a PhD in Philology and a professor at Moscow State University and Higher School of Economics. Her main research interests are: Russian literature, history of aesthetics and literary criticism, and textology.